

Farm Details:

As such this department does not possess any farm land. However, Department is carrying out various research experiments in collaboration with other Departments / Centers of this University on the aspect of nutrient requirements of various crops as well as increase in the efficiency of various agricultural inputs like, soils, water, plant and manures for improving crop yield and maintenance of soil health under South Gujarat condition.

Department is engaged also in analyzing various samples of plants, soils, organic fertilizers, irrigation waters etc. received from farmers, other agencies and samples of various experiments of P.G. students. Further, this Department is also solving various problems encountered by farmers / organizations in relation to crop production utilizing various natural resources and inputs like, soil, water, plant, fertilizer and manures by analyzing these inputs / resources and field visit and subsequently extending Extension Advisory Services.